FOREWORD

It has been our purpose in publishing this, the eleventh volume of the PaC-SaC, to give a complete and accurate history of our college life and to perpetuate in our memories the high ideals of our Alma Mater. If in future years this annual may serve to recall pleasant thoughts of our happy college days and awaken in us that never-dying P. C. Spirit, we shall not have labored in vain.

TO
CAREY CLYDE BROWN

In memory of a noble life, cut short in early manhood, but embodying during its brief span the spirit of our Alma Mater, exemplifying the ardor of a loyal athlete, and crowning its true worth by the supreme sacrifice, we dedicate this volume of the PaC-SaC.

COLONEL LEROY SPRINGS

Our friend and benefactor, esteemed and honored by students and faculty, not only for his splendid manifestation of his generosity, but also for his kindly interest in our progress, and the impetus his open-heartedness has given it.

MRS. MYRTLE HUNTER

An unfailing friend, gracious, sympathetic and devoted to our happiness; loved by all, and to all a mother, whose varied charms with their attendant virtues meet in a life that bespeaks the bigness of her heart.

Senior Class Poem

*Once upon a noon-day, brightly,
Four short years ago, and rightly
Started the class of twenty-four,
All of them—a full four score,*

*On a journey, never ending,
Toward a finish always aiming,
Into a future, with what in store?
All of that and nothing more,*

*Believing once in Rat-ionism
Then a year of Soph-morism
Followed shortly by Junior lore,
All of that and something more,*

*Finished now a year, memorial,
Finished now a life, pictorial,
Gone: nothing can restore,
All are wishes, nothing more,*

*Now we take our sad departure,
Leaving behind our Alma Mater,
Facing worldly problems galore,
Something to think about: nothing more,*

*Soon upon a noon-day, glorious;
Shall we wait, impatient, victorious
For the skin students afore;
But quoth the Senior "Nevermore".*

—POET '21.

With thanks to Edgar Allen Poe for the use of his "Raven".

ALEXANDER RAMSAY BATCHELOR, A. B.
GENEVA, NEW YORK

Entered College '23; Student Christian Workers; Student Volunteer Band; Glee Club, '24; Pittsburgh Bible Institute (4); Columbia Theological Seminary (3).

*"A life of honor and of worth
Has no Eternity on Earth."*

"Batch" came to us only this year, but as you see he has taken a prominent part in our class, standing at the head. After finishing at Pittsburgh Bible Institute and at Columbia Theological Seminary he picked P. C. out as a nice winter resort for preachers and consequently he is here.

Batchelor is a peculiar kind of a chap, in fact, he is the only Batchelor in college, yet he is married. After all of his experience in getting Batchelor degrees he has now found one that will stay by him. "Ma Batch" and little Miss Batch say they are going to be there when "Dad" becomes an artistic Batchelor.

Seriously, we are proud of Batchelor. During his short stay with us he has characterized himself as a true gentleman, an earnest, conscientious christian and a determined scholar. He has chosen the highest calling that man may aspire to and we are confident of his success. You have endeared yourself to us during your short stay, Batch, and the prayers of the class of '24 are with you in your life work.

"Well, I'll have to ask the wife."

VAN KIRK BLAND, A. B.
MOUTH OF SENECA, WEST VIRGINIA

Pi Kappa Alpha

Entered College '20; Member Philomathean Literary Society, Corresponding Secretary, Second Monitor, Chaplain, Marshal, Critic, Declaimer '22; Class Prophet '24; Student Council; Blue Stocking '24; Collegian '24; Vice-President of Y. M. C. A.; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3); Student Assistant in Biology (2); R. D. T. C., Corporal, Sergeant, Major; President of Camp McClellan Club '23; Class Football '20-'21-'23; Assistant Manager of Track '22, Manager Track '23; Wearer of the "P".

*"Love sometimes is very queer,
It scolds the one it holds most dear."*

Introducing to you one who is destined to become one of the worlds greatest military leaders. "V. K." is also a genius of renowned ability in the science hall. He is well versed in Chemistry and is an assistant in "Bugology".

V. K. is proud of his relation to great men; he came from the "Mouth of Seneca", whereas Jonah came from the "Mouth of the Whale." A constant aid has he been to Lieutenant in editing the new "Irregular Drill Regulations". A truer, nobler gentleman is yet to be found; at least the ladies think so at night. This lad ran so much his freshman year that he is run down, and now he serves as the manager of the track team. As manager, he is a splendid water boy.

In the class room V. K. is above the average, taking one year, more or less, to pass freshman math. Bland has also rendered valuable service to the college papers and magazines. When he leaves P. C. we can say that he did his part for his class, his college and his fellow students.

'Luck to you, Old man. We wish you success in all your endeavors.

"Uniform for drill: O. D. shirts and black cravats."

RATCHFORD WILSON BOLAND, A. B.
CLINTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Member Eukosmian Literary Society; Laurens County Club; Camp McClellan Club; Corporal, Platoon Sergeant, First Sergeant, R. O. T. C.; Class Football '22; Baseball Squad '22-'23

*"When it rains, let it rain;
Make the best of everything."*

You are now beholding one who is to become a second Napoleon. He displays great ability as drill master and at camp won for himself the undisputed title of "Gold Bricker", having spent four of the six weeks in the hospital with sun strokes and epileptic fits resulting from the manipulation of the Stokes Mortar.

Having been chosen as a model rat his Freshman year, he has carried the title throughout his entire course and now even the rats call him "Rat."

Rat hails from "Wide-Awake-Clinton", but, despite that handicap, he has made quite a record for himself. His college career has been a success in every way. He has not "dingled" nor "politicked" for anything, but has entered into every activity on his own merits. Never brilliant, but always consistent, he is an example of what courage and determination will do. Rat is a good class-mate, always cheerful and friendly. He has never been known to be angry with anyone during his four years in college. There are but few who can claim such a record.

Old fellow, whether you run a shoe shine parlor or a million dollar industry, your good-humored disposition will bring friends for you wherever you go. May great success crown your efforts in whatever pursuit you may follow. "Always true to the best that is in him", he has the good wishes of the class of '24.

"Hell, I didn't know nothing about it."

GEORGE PROCTOR BOOZER, JR., A. B.
NEWBERRY, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '21; Member of the Philomathean Literary Society; Corporal, First Sergeant, R. O. T. C.; Debating Club; Camp McClellan Club.

"I see the right and the right approve—Condemn the wrong, yet the wrong pursue"

Ladies and Gentlemen, we take great pleasure in presenting for your approval, Highpockets Boozer, the light-weight, middle-weight, and heavy-weight, world's championship contender. His brilliant fights in dear old Camp McClellan have made his an enviable name among sport lovers of the world. Most of his training was obtained by fighting biscuits while on K. P. at camp. The remainder was acquired through that choice exercise, which we all so much enjoy, peeling spuds.

Proctor is what you might call a "hard boy" at times—one of those fellows who eats pebbles seasoned with iron filings, picks his teeth with ten penny nails and does his manicuring with a rasp. He really is a fine fellow though and his only other fault is the women. His heart is capable of many loves and his thoughts of the fair sex are many.

Boozer is a good scout and a pleasant companion. His friendly and care-free nature has won for him a place in our hearts. He is kind, generous, and envies none. His sun-shiny disposition, his cheerful smile and his genuine devotedness to friends and duty has endeared him to us all. We feel sure that he will succeed in his life's work, and we wish for him the very best that the world has to offer.

"You need not; come to me, I'm hot enough for you."

ROBERT ALLISTER BUCKNER, A. B.
CLIO, SOUTH CAROLINA
Pi Kappa Phi

Entered College '20; Member Philomathean Literary Society, First Censor, Second Censor, Conductor, Corresponding Secretary; Secretary and Treasurer Y. M. C. A.; Treasurer of Class '23; Debating Council; Blue Stocking Staff '22-'23; Corporal, First Lieutenant, R. O. T. C.; Camp McClellan Club; Vice-President Pee Dee Club; President of Preacher's Sons Club; Class Football '21-'23.

"Know Thon Thine Eggs"

Once in a decade, every town contributes its genius. Clio is no exception. Whether or not this gallant city has produced, in answer to the urge of fortune, another man of Buckner's calibre, we do not know. But in him she has fulfilled her lot. Under her gentle care has blossomed this youth, and four years at P. C. have served only to emphasize the individuality that makes him the one and incomparable "Buck".

Two assets comprise this man's life equipment,—a wealth of beautiful auburn hair, and a "line" that even the wisest cannot gainsay. The latter of these possessions he has utilized so effectively that the fairest maiden has yielded to the magic of his lingo, and the most unapproachable professor has softened repeatedly under the influence of his words. Class-room psychology is an unexplored field for many, but Buckner has reduced its subtle principles to an art, in the application of which he has been surprisingly successful.

"Buck" has a clear head and is alert to the possibilities of life. He is a tireless worker and a reliable gentleman. Meet the world squarely, Buck, with your characteristic determination, and you will surely be rewarded with a bountiful success.

"Got a Cigarette?"

JEFF WATSON CHAPMAN, A. B.
COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Corresponding Secretary, Eukosmian Literary Society; Blue Stocking Staff '23-'24; PaC-SaC Staff '24; Editor-in-Chief of The Collegian '23-'24; Chief Cheer Leader '23-'24; Class Football '23; Corporal, Sergeant R. O. T. C.; Columbia Club; Camp McClellan Club.

*"When I was born my ma and pa
They looked at me and said 'O! Pshaw'."*

What harbinger of fortune ushered in this wayward one to march with fearless steps in the ranks of the seasoned veterans of '24! What Child of Zeus touched him with the wand that engendered into his modest personality those sterling qualities that have won for him a lasting place in the affections of his class-mates! A stauncher friend or worthier companion ne'er set foot on our campus. He is the kind of man you instinctively like. And before we proceed further with his praise, let it be said that he has one condemning fault. The pervading influence of his personality has permeated the realms of both sexes, but to the gentler he is merciless in his indifference, although they never cease to bid for his affections.

No narrow channels confine this man to the plain of mediocrity. His part in college life indicates a rare versatility. As a writer he has edited the college magazine with unusual ability, and as a scientist, he would be ranked by his associates with such celebrities as Darwin, etc. But if Chapman had accomplished nothing in the way of collegiate fame, and his achievements are many, the fact that he has won the truest esteem and friendship of his fellow-students, as attested by his unusual popularity, would be sufficient evidence to proclaim him a thoroughbred in every sense of the word.

Jeff, we bid you a reluctant farewell. Carry into life the splendid qualities that you displayed among the men who cherish your friendship, and success will be yours.

"Where's my pipe!"

WILLIAM JOHN CHERRY, JR., A. B.
ROCK HILL, SOUTH CAROLINA

Pi Kappa Delta, Pi Kappa Alpha

*"Who broke no promise, served no private end,
Who gained no enemy, and lost no friend"*

"Honor to whom honor is due." If this were our class motto, we would not hesitate to declare our much esteemed president famous. The success of the class of '24 was assured when he was elected. His cheerful willingness to work has inspired us to attempt great things, and, if ought has been accomplished by us, no small share of the credit is due to him. As a class we are deeply indebted to him for his faithfulness and loyalty.

For four years we have known him, and for four years we have called him friend. He has endeared himself in the heart of every member of the student body, and a general feeling of brotherly love is extended to him from every side. Those who know him revel in his company, and are proud to have him near.

Cherry's popularity with the ladies does not detract from his popularity with the men. He is the truest of friends and a worthy companion. His quick wit, judgment and business ability are unsurpassed in college. Whatever he may choose as a life work, he is sure of success, for success is a part of his nature. No matter how far we may become separated, there will always remain a warm spot in our hearts for Cherry.

"Important meeting of the Senior Class right after dinner."

PIERCE PIERPONT HENDERSON, A. B.
ASHEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Member of Eukosmian Literary Society, Doorkeeper, First Monitor, Critic; Secretary of North Carolina Club; Member of "Amalgamated Conglomeration of Meat-Butchers"; Head Linesman of Senior Class Football Team.

Occasionally we meet a man whose finer qualities are manifested, not in the words he utters, but in the life he lives. Such a man is Henderson. He is a gentleman, not only in the broad sense that popular use has given the word, but in the nobler sense that he radiates the chivalric spirit of the Old South. Generous, courteous and modest, this man is loyal to the principles that have moulded his life. A mountaineer by birth, he is a prince by nature. The cultivation of friendships is an art which few have perfected; and yet, here is a man whose sincerity of speech and charm of manner have won for him a host of lasting friends.

Henderson has won quite a reputation as a mathematician. What better evidence of a splendid mind could be given? Also, his work in all his classes is excellent. We are glad that the Gods have decreed that this man shall succeed. His strength of character, his clear-cut and high ideals, coupled with his firm determination, have fixed him in the hearts of his classmates, and we will be pleased to hear of his achievements in days to come. God speed, Henderson! May you reach the highest realms to which the mind of man aspires.

"If we can't trade, we'll swap football dope."

HEYWARD JOSEPH HINDMAN, A. B.
CHESTER, SOUTH CAROLINA

Pi Kappa Phi

Entered College '20; Eukosmian Literary Society, First Monitor, Critic; Chester County Club; Camp McClellan Club; Pan-Hellenic Council; President Junior Class; Poet Senior Class; Blue Stocking Staff '21-'22-'23; Business Manager Collegian '22; PaC-SaC Staff '23-'24; Student Council '22; Student Assistant in Chemistry; R. D. T. C., Corporal, Color Sergeant; Varsity Football '21-'22-'23; Varsity Baseball '23; Coach Class Football '21-'23; Wearer of "P".

"It's a waste of energy to run in low gear"

When this stalwart youth bade farewell to the spot of his nativity, namely Chester, he found a hearty welcome at P. C. Like Caesar he spent his early years within a city of seven hills (or seventeen) and like Caesar he became a great general. For three years he has piloted our team as quarterback with most admirable success, showing keen judgment at all times.

Hindman, or "Hiny" as we call him, has become quite famous within the precincts of P. C. as a chemist. He is an excellent writer too, and has done his part in making the Blue Stocking a lively publication. He is a man of ability, and we predict for him a success in the game of life.

In the class-room Hindman has stood with the best. Although he has not ostensibly grasped for dingles, he seems to have received a bountiful supply of the choice berries, and so tenderly has he nursed them that they have taken root and borne a hundred fold. So long, Hiny, if good sense and dependability count for anything, yours will be a real success.

"Give me number three please."

HERMAN GRICE HUNT, A. B.
OWINGS, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Member of Philomathean Literary Society, Second Censor, Corresponding Secretary; Member Laurens County Club; Hobo Club; Sorrel Top Club; R. O. T. C., Corporal, Sergeant, Supply Sergeant; League Baseball; Camp McClellan Club; P. C. Rifle Team.

"After all the books in the universe have been exhausted, I have something to say."

From Hunt's general appearance one might judge him to be a member of New York's Four Hundred. Such a guess would not be far wrong, for he is one of the four hundred of Owings, S. C. His manner and dress typify a gentleman of leisure thus making him a model for the fashion world.

He is a distinguished member of the boys of '24 who spent six weeks of agony among Alabama's "Sun Kussed" hills where only the fit survive. He also did his bit to keep Anniston's famous vaudeville from going bankrupt.

Hunt's clean manly ways and good taste for neatness have made for him a favorable impression among both faculty and students. We predict for him a great future, and who knows but that in twenty years he might occupy a seat among the sages in the Synagogue.

In parting words, we regret that time has passed so swiftly, that we can no longer linger, we must follow the tide on out into the world. Farewell, Grice, may prosperity and happiness follow you to the end.

"Us Sergeants got to stick together too."

FRANK WILLIAM LaMOTTE, A. B.
COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA

Pi Kappa Alpha

Entered College '20; Eukosmian Literary Society; Vice-President Senior Class; Camp McClellan Club; Class Football '20-'22-'23; P. C. League Baseball; P. C. Rifle Team; Columbia Club; R. O. T. C., Corporal, Sergeant, Sergeant-Major.

"Strong reasons make strong actions Culminating in strong men."

Gaze, gentle peruser, upon this noble physiognomy. Fix its lines with unerring accuracy, lest, as a lovely vision it fade from your glance. For though of outward beauty, it harbors the mystery of the sphinx. We have never been able to fathom this many-sided personality, but we have learned to honor and respect it, and indeed such honor is due.

Frank is friendly and courteous, and these excellent qualities have begat for him a reciprocal popularity. He is as true as steel, too, and can be counted on to do his part at any time. Complaint and neglect are unknown to him. His reputation for dependability has rewarded him with considerable work, but he has never hesitated to perform his task. Frank has been gifted with an unusual amount of energy, and it shows in his buoyant spirits.

Whatever your task of life, Frank, you will not fail. Industry and ambition have carried many a man to the top, and the gods have blessed you with no small measure of these splendid qualities.

"Well, you're got to show me."

ROBERT MATTHEW LYNN, A. B.
CLINTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Pi Kappa Alpha

Entered College '20; Member Eukosmian Literary Society, Sergeant-at-Arms, Second Monitor, Recording Secretary (2); Sorrel Circle; Laurens County Club; President of Thornwell Club; Preacher's Sons Club; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; R. O. T. C. Corporal, Second Lieutenant; Camp McClellan Club

"To really live is rare, most people just exist."

It has often been argued that a man attending college in his home town is at a disadvantage. Here is a direct refutation, at least for this particular case. Lynn, although not so closely associated with us in dormitory life, is bound to us through the affectionate esteem his genial personality merits. His sincere cordiality indicates a warm heart, and we part with him as with an old friend.

Lynn is perhaps the youngest member of our class. But although his years have scarce reached the mark of his first score, he has harvested the fruits of a rich experience. When first he joined our ranks, he was "too little" to delight in the company of the sweeter sex, but he has long since become an ardent aspirant to the realms of social king. But Lynn's experience embraces far more than the transient pleasures associated with the romantic art. He is a man of fine attributes, sincere, generous, and capable. If he meets the problems of life with the same determined frankness that has characterized him during his sojourn at P. C., he cannot fail to reap the benefits of success.

"Can't, got a date tonight."

JOE FINNEY MASON, A. B.
CLINTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Kappa Alpha

Entered College '20; Corresponding Secretary, First Monitor, Critic, Eukosmian Literary Society; Secretary Junior Class; Business Manager Blue Stocking '23; Circulation Manager Blue Stocking '22; President Laurens County Club '23; Pan-Hellenic Council '23-'24; Wearer of "P"; PaC-SaC Staff '24; Football '24-'22-'23; Basketball '24-'22-'23-'24, Captain '23; Baseball Squad '24.

"But learn to wear a sober phiz, be stupid if you can It's such a very serious thing to be a funny man"

Clinton has given us many valuable men, and Mason is by no means the least of these. When he joined our class some four years ago, we recognized at once a man of true worth. Joe conducts himself with the air of a gentleman, and his every action marks him as such. The Gods have gifted him with the mirth of Touchstone; and just as laughter banishes gloom, so Joe, with his keen sense of humor, has often heightened our spirits with his characteristic wit. He has many friends who will remember him as a true-hearted man long after their college days have passed.

As an asset to the football team, Mason has been invaluable. He has a graceful way of grasping the oval from the sky, and such feats of skill have often sent a thrill into the anxious heart of many a spectator. Joe is also an artist among the basketballers. He captained the quintet of '23, and guided his team with all the energy of a consistent player. Who knows but that Joe will become a famous coach. If so, here's hoping he will produce many athletes of a calibre equal to his own.

"Like to work hard, it feels so good to rest."

FRANCIS BOREL MAYES, A. B.
WINNSBORO, SOUTH CAROLINA

Owl Club

Entered College '20; First Censor, Vice-President, Philomathean Literary Society; Blue Stocking Staff '22; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet '23; President Y. M. C. A. '24; Member Student Council '23-'24; Advertising Manager PaC-SaC '24; Pan-Hellenic Council '24; Wearer of "I"; Manager Football '23; Corporal, First Lieutenant R. O. T. C.

"An honest man is a perfect work of God"

This is "Skimp". Where he got the name is uncertain, but it has always been better to speak of him as Skimp rather than Francis, because Co-ed's are scarce at P. C. and one seeing his lovable smile and hearing his girlish name might think the old custom was coming back. But skimp is a wise old bird. In fact, he even belongs to the Owl Club. Speaking of birds reminds us that he is even related to one. He is akin to Dr. Byrd at Chicora, and, oh yes, that calls up something else—there are "some" other attractions for Francis at Chicora. We wouldn't tell on him though.

To show that Skimp is an untiring worker one has only to say that he was Manager of the '23 football team, while at the same time taking nine hours a week under "Dudley", and "specializing" in Greek under "Spence." His room is a place where one is always welcome (when you can find him in). He is just the sort of lad you like to be around. The girls would perhaps tell you the same thing about him, but we've already agreed not to tell anything on him.

The willingness with which Mayes has always shouldered the various and sundry responsibilities thrust upon him by his fellow students goes to prove that there is something great about him. He has really accomplished something at school and, Skimp, old timer, as you go out from us we know that this same real manhood will go with you and make it possible for you to meet life as a true member of the Class of '24 should. Our hearts are with you, and we know success will be yours.

"Vesper services right after supper."

EDGAR DONALD McMAHAN, A. B.
Piedmont, South Carolina

Entered College '20; Member Eukosmian Literary Society, Conductor; Dramatic Club, Secretary and Treasurer '22; Debating Club, Secretary '21-'22; Winner Eukosmian Improvement Medal '21; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet '22; Secretary S. C. W. '23; Wearer of the "P"; Sophomore Class Football '21; R. O. T. C., Corporal, First Lieutenant; PaC-SaC Staff '22-'24; Blue Stocking Staff '22; Editor-in-Chief Blue Stocking '21; Historian Class '24.

*"When wisdom's gained there's nothing lost,
No matter what has been the cost."*

Allow us to present Mr. McMahan, scholar and sage. He is a journalist of recognized ability, and an untiring worker. This man is not a shirker, even of the most trivial duty, and he is competent to fill a responsible position in life. In his classes he holds a high place. Some men fool the professors, but "Mc" gets there through scholarship and consistent effort. If marks are indicative of intelligence, he possesses it in an unusual measure. Intelligence alone is of little worth, but this lad couples with the aforesaid possession a definite purpose in life, and has the determination to put it across.

McMahan has been of great service to P. C., and to his country. He is to be commended on the successful way in which he edited the "Blue Stocking". In forensic activities he has taken a leading part and was a member both of the Dramatic Club and the Debating Club. His athletic ability has been manifested by his work on the track, in which sport he made his letter. Good sense and capacity for hard work have made him a real asset to his college. We congratulate him, also, on his choice of a like work. He has decided to enter the the highest of all callings and we wish him success. Best of luck, Mc, we'll rejoice with you in the fruits of your labor.

"The deuce it does."

JOSEPH GRAHAM MILLER, A. B.
CLINTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Pi Kappa Alpha

Entered College '20; Second Monitor, Secretary, Vice-President, President (two terms), Eukosmian Literary Society; Corporal, Captain, R. O. T. C.; Editor-in-Chief PaC; Sat' '21; Member Pan-Hellenic Council '23-'24; Secretary Camp McClellan Club; Vice-President Foreigners Club; Member Golf Club; Laurens County Club; Varsity Baseball '21-'22-'23; Basketball '21-'22-'23, Captain '24; Football '21-'22-'23, Captain '23; All-State '23; Wearer of "P".

"P. C. Joins Big Three!"

In our efforts to build up a unique reputation for our college, we unconsciously aim at an ideal. To incorporate within her sons the idealism of P. C. has been our unwritten purpose. And somehow, a few of our men have caught, amid the varied elements of campus life, something of the spirit that stamps our college with its individual character. In this particular, Miller is a true product of P. C. He bears the unmistakable marks of a worthy son. Within this modest personality reposes the spirit of an age—the age of achievement—and if, in after years, this man can look back upon a life consistent in fruitfulness with his college record, he will review a life crowned with the highest success.

Miller is a leader in every phase of college life. The indomitable courage with which he led our football team from victory to victory, can be attested only by those who saw this fighting captain crash an opponent to earth. He, of All-State fame, has been the envied object of many an admiring glance; and yet he has always maintained the modest bearing of a true soldier. To Miller, also, has been intrusted the signal honor of editing our annual, for he possesses, besides a splendid physique, a capable mind. We like this man for his sheer genuineness of personality, unpretentious, unassuming, with a strange admixture of dynamic force and striking individuality. Whatever be your task in life we wish for you only the best.

"Is that a fact?"

HYDER KEY NEELY, A. B.
ANDERSON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '13; Member Philomathean Literary Society; Member of Orchestra '13-'14; Manager of Orchestra '14; Member in '22-'23; Naval Reserve Force '18-'22; Varsity Football Squad '14-'15-'22-'23; Varsity Basketball Squad '14-'15-'23; Varsity Baseball Squad '13-'14;

*"Success doesn't consist in never making blunders,
But in never making the same one twice."*

This bovine specimen of amiability hails from Anderson. From the tips of his turned up toes, past his turned up smile to the ends of his turned up hair he is chocked full of music—good humor and diligence. Neely entered school when things were young and returned last year to see if things were any older. Alumni Hall was the only building we had then and he thinks it is still the only building and is perfectly at home in his native hearth. He is taking astronomy this year and knows every dairy on the milky way.

Neely really is a fine fellow. He entered school in '13 and when the war broke out he proudly laid down his books and joined our navy. After serving there four years he has come back to finish with us. He is an easy going chap; never worries much about anything, never appears to exert himself much. Studies hard at times yet he is never too busy to take part in college activities. He is an all-round man, has been on the varsity squad in all three forms of athletics and was manager of the Glee Club one year. He likes his fun, takes it where he finds it and refuses to grow old. Some say that he is going to do something real funny before long—that is, if she doesn't send the ring back before he finishes. The best of luck to you "pig iron." The class of '24 is behind you in whatever you attempt.

"Hi-i Bu-ud."

MELVIN BOND NICKLES, A. B.
DONALDS, SOUTH CAROLINA

Pi Kappa Alpha

Entered College '20; Member Philomathean Literary Society; Winner Philomathean Improvement Medal '21; Assistant Manager of Baseball '23; Manager of Baseball '24; Member of Athletic Council; R. O. T. C. Corporal, Lieutenant; Member Camp McClellan Club.

*"Do right and fear no man
Don't write and fear no woman."*

Caesar was ambitious—so was Napoleon, Bismark, and Alexander; but if the ambition of all these great men could be balanced against "Nick's", they would swing to the upper extremity of the balance. His college course was characterized by conscientiousness and perseverance, but such aspirations were doomed to oblivion. The climax came in his Junior year; love won another victory and now his hope of the future lies in the construction of a mathematical equation which, when applied to the distance between P. C. and Agnes Scott and the time to graduation day will give zero.

When the Gods made this man they made one part mightier than the rest—and that part was his heart. If you ever need a friend, hunt up this man, in whom the spring of jubilant life is ever flowing, and you have one. He is a quiet reserved fellow who never meddles in other people's affairs; yet who never refuses his services when they are needed. He is a lover of P. C. and has contributed his part to his Alma Mater. He has endeared himself to all who have known him.

Great luck to you old scout; we extend a bit of cheer to you on your way, hoping that your plans may materialize and that your highest ambitions may be realized.

"Don't know it."

LEON NORTON, A. B.
LITTLE ROCK, SOUTH CAROLINA

Chi Tau

Entered College '20; Sergeant-at-Arms, President, Philomathean Literary Society; Member Pan-Hellenic Council; V. M. C. A. Cabinet; Wearer of "P"; President Pee Dee Club; Vice-President Camp McClellan Club; President Exterminators' Club; Member Student Council; Vice-President South Carolina Oratorical Association; Corporal, Sergeant, First Sergeant, Captain, R. O. T. C.; Business Manager PaC-SaC '21; Student Assistant in Department of Psychology; Varsity Baseball; Varsity Football '21-'22-'23.

"He was—but words would fail to tell thee what Think what a man should be—he was that"

Leon Norton is more commonly known as "Venus", probably not because he has any of the form of that immortal, but because he has plenty of the makings. In fact, he is so big that he was shipped here in parts and assembled on the home grounds; and he has continued to grow (mentally) since he has been here. He is not only the big man of our class physically, but big in many other ways. He has a charm about him that the women can't resist. In fact, he had a hard time choosing a girl for sponsor this year, but after many hours of deliberation he was finally persuaded.

But really he is the "Berries". He has an unlimited supply of good humor and his laugh is always cocked ready to go off at any moment. His chief delight is sleeping; he once went to sleep in the dentist chair. He can go way down and come up with some voluminous commands when his company seems a bit at ease. The Philomatheans have learned to respect that voice too, because order is one thing that he swears by. He takes a wicked cut at a baseball, and on that manly breast a little gold football dangles. He is a member of the Student Council, while on the sideline he finances the PaC-SaC. "Put", you've been a great chum and we hate to part your company. May the success that has been yours in college follow you through life.

"Uh, that hurts so good."

GEORGE REID O'DANIEL, A. B.
CLINTON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Member of Eukosmian Literary Society; Society Declaimer; Member of Laurens County Club; Camp McClellan Club; Assistant Editor PaC-SaC; R. O. T. C. Corporal, Sergeant, First Lieutenant.

*"I slept and dreamt that life was beauty,
I woke and found that life was duty."*

Attention! This is Lieutenant O'Daniel. He entered college in '20 as green as the rest of us, but immediately took hold of his work with the determination to make good. The Military department appealed most to him and he has developed into a soldier of merit. If it were not for Lieutenant O'Daniel, Col. Glasgow's and Lt. Nimocks' R. O. T. C. would not be in the class with Macfarlan's scout troop.

George is a town student and when he is not drilling or studying he is busy cranking the "Old Henry". When asked the reason for his indifference to the attentions of the fair maidens, he replies that duty comes before pleasure.

We are proud to say that O'Daniel is one of the few men who come to college with the determination to be second to none in anything but to surpass at all times. He always does his best and we are sure that he will carry this same determination throughout his life and by so doing accomplish great success. His classmates wish him nothing less.

"Col., us officers got to stick together."

"Not a man of inches, but every inch a man."

Ladies and gentlemen and football fans, here is a ladies man of the Nth degree, a gentleman in the truest sense of the word, and a miniature marvel of the southern gridiron. Little can be said of Shorty that is not universally known, since he is an appropriate subject for conversation at any and all gatherings. The ladies all love him, his foemen fear him, and everyone respects him.

Shorty is a wonderful chap. That merry laugh of his would make the gloomiest grouch cheer up. That friendly disposition would win the most unsociable being to him and that loveliness of personality would captivate the heart of any lady. Shorty is indeed a ladies man, still no one has yet been able to find the real She. He is about as sly in his love affairs as he is in football—you simply can't catch him. 'Tis true he is small in stature, but he is every inch a man in principle. He knows right paths and, as president of the Student Body, he has demonstrated to the world that he has the moral fibre to walk in them. Good luck, Shorty, we don't know what you are going to do when you leave us, but we do know that whatever it is you are going to do it!

"Be quiet up there, this is study hour."

JOSEPH LEE PLEXICO, A. B.
SHARON, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Conductor, First Censor, Philomathean Literary Society; Member S. C. W.; Secretary-Treasurer, Student Volunteer Band; Wearer of "P"; Class Football '21-'23; Cross-Country Track Team '22-'23; Captain Track Team '23; Corporal, Sergeant R. O. T. C.

"Go as far as you can, then see how far you can go."

Plexico is the cognomen of this small town idol who hails from the metropolis of Sharon, S. C. To such an advantage has he spent his four years at P. C., that he is now able to speak English with scarcely any foreign accent. He is known through the seven states as a nuisance. This reputation he won for himself as a book salesman. He is the old maid's choice, the babies cry for him. This popularity is doubtless due to his incessant grin which reminds us of the ripples on a mud puddle. However we must not be too hard on him. He means well, but has only been mistreated.

In Plexico we find a true optimist. His constant cheerfulness keeps his associates in high spirits, and the warmth of his friendship is sought by all. In the four years that we have known him those deeper bonds of brotherly love have made him our earnest companion. Plexico has made an enviable record on the cross-country track team. He is a true specimen of American manhood, physically, mentally, and morally. Wherever he goes he may rest assured that the best wishes of the class of '24 will accompany him always.

"Sprechen Du Deutsch?"

WILLIAM ROSS RICKER, A. B.
ROCK HILL, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Member Philomathean Literary Society; Secretary of Senior Class; R. O. T. C. Corporal, Sergeant; Wearer of the "I"; Class Football '20-'21; Varsity Football '23; Varsity Basketball '23-'24.

*"It seemed, when nature him began,
She meant to show us a complete man."*

Ricker is one of the things that makes York County famous. This tall athletic youth is true to the type of American sportsmen. He is a clean player and, as his records will show, is a foe to be feared both on the gridiron and in the cage. He is a track man of no little accomplishment and his feats in this branch of athletics have brought him a number of coveted medals.

Ricker appears to be quite indifferent to the charms of the fair sex, but we know a certain maid who boasts that this handsome fellow is "her man." We feel sure that he will be flooded with Leap Year proposals and we doubt if he will be able to keep up his modest indifference much longer.

The Class of '24 is indeed proud to claim Ricker as one of their number. He is congenial and has a pleasant disposition. His friends are many and his presence is always welcome among his classmates. We are confident that he will make many new friends after he leaves us, and that many will be benefited through his association. Farewell, old pal, we wish you the best that this world has to offer.

"The great Duke says so."

VIVIAN ALEXANDER SYDENSTRICKER, A. B.
DECATUR, GEORGIA

Entered College '21; Member Philomathean Literary Society; Manager Senior Football Team '23; Manager Senior Basketball Team '24

*" 'Tis age that nourishes,
But youth, in ladies eyes, that flourishes."*

Friends, Romans, Countrymen, lend this Shiek of P. C. College. His extreme indifference towards the fair damsels with whom he comes in contact makes them all the more desirous of obtaining his favor. They weep with delight when he gives them a smile and tremble with fear at his frown. As Shakespeare would say, his ways are so gentle and the elements so mixed in him, that nature might stand up and say to all the world, "This, alas, is a model Romeo". But unlike the Romeo of old, he does not sing to his girl, but rather is forced to write to her, because she lives too far away, in St. Louis. It is said that every time a cowbell rings he rushes to the postoffice.

Strick came to us in his Sophomore year, after spending one year at Emory. Despite his city ways and his metropolitan girls, he gradually accustomed himself to his new environment and now graces the beauty of our small town. He is a man of no mean business ability and we are proud to claim him as one of our number. He greets one and all with a smile and we are sure to forget our troubles if he is near. He is gentle, kind and sympathetic, with a good word for everybody. He is a tireless worker and discharges, without complaining, every task that is assigned him, in a commendable manner. His popularity increases as time goes on and we predict for him a huge success. Good luck to you, old pal!

"Any mail this morning?"

THOMAS DOUGLAS WALLACE, A. B.
GREAT FALLS, SOUTH CAROLINA

Entered College '20; Assistant Manager of Basketball; Manager of Basketball '24; Member of Eukosmian Literary Society, Secretary; Student Council; Blue Stocking Staff '23; Managing Editor of Blue Stocking '24; Collegian Staff '23; Chester County Club; R. O. T. C. Corporal, Sergeant.

"Build for the future, but live in the present."

This is "Tildy". One glance at his handsome countenance will be sufficient to convince you that he is a born military man. No better soldier has ever served under the famous Trotsky or Pancho Villa. At Camp McClellan last summer, had promotions been based upon K. P. ability or even gold-bricking, Tildy would have rated Gen. Nuisance. When guiding a platoon his actions remind one so forcibly of a corkscrew (now extinct) that many a prominent witness of his feat, is seen to brush a tear from his eye. For fear that some fair Clinton school teacher might see him in his soldier suit, this well-groomed gentleman meets drill attired in his Sunday best.

Tom is a jolly good fellow. His constant optimism means much to his classmates. He is a good student and is liked by every member of the faculty and student body. His popularity is shown by the fact that he has served on the Student Council and is manager of basketball, two of the highest honors to be obtained in college. We believe that Tom will make good in whatever work he chooses. It is certain that the best wishes of the class of '24 will follow him to the end.

Cabinet; PaC-SaC Staff '22; Assistant English '22-'23; Declaimer '21; Student Council '22; Intercollegiate Debator '20-'21-'22; Editor-in-Chief of Collegian '22; S. C. W., S. V. W.

"Silent in Seven Languages."

Behold this blithe and trusting youth, Eddie, gathered from the shores of the Cooper and Ashley Rivers, he is as gentle as the mild zephyrs that fan their shores, is as scrupulous as the day is long and friend of the brotherhood of man. In all classes of endeavor there are always some few men who set the pace for others. Such a man is Warren.

In forensic activities he heads our class. Demosthenes could not show our classmate a thing about speaking. Whether on a debating team, in an oratorical contest, preaching a sermon or even talking to the fair ones, he is unsurpassed in his eloquence and flow of language. He has studied every language that is taught in school and one or two others that are not.

They say that Ed is a "man of letters" but judging from the amount of mail he gets he must be a "man of ladies". He has written several books and for a year was editor of our college magazine, but it is said that the best of his works go out under a two-cent stamp. If there is ever any speaking to be done or an article to be written, Ed is your man. He has decided to go into the ministry, in fact he is already preaching. Go on Ed with your good work and may the true spirit of the class of '24 guide and encourage you in your attainment of the best.

*"Provoked by the handicap of his stature,
He battled his place among men."*

In every class there are some few men who, day by day, without pretention, without boasting, faithfully and earnestly perform their daily tasks. They may never seem brilliant, they may never make particularly high marks, they may never toot the horn of self-praise; yet after all these are the men that win in the strife. Just such a man is Jack. (Arthur Thompson Wilson is his name, but we know him as "Jack".) Altho small in statue he makes up for this deficiency by his determination and stick-ability. His true worth and ability is in inverse ratio to his height.

Possessing those qualities that go to make up a man of iron constitution, he made himself known in the football world as one of the hardest driving diminutive backs that ever crossed a goal line. As a lover of American sports, he is characterized as a contestant who put his whole heart and soul into a struggle.

Jack has a mark of geniality, and is loved by everyone. He is friendly, kind, generous, and blessed with the greatest of all gifts, "Common Sense." He meets the world squarely, gives his all, and asks nothing in return. As a pal, he is true as steel, tested, and not found wanting. We will never forget Jack's loyalty to his college and to his class. In closing, we will pay him this just tribute, which was best expressed by his own Coach—"He's a great little man."

"Ye's jest lak yer Ma, Honey."

Senior Prophecy

"The invention is a success." The words flashed over the continent and rebounded again. The trial flight had been made and I was to accompany it on its first extended flight.

As the helicopter rolled out on the field, and as I mounted the machine and took my place beside the pilot, I dared not look back for fear some great omen might befall us. As well as I recollect, now being well stricken in years, it took many moons to reach our destination, namely, Mars.

My mission was to establish inter-planet relationship. I remained in Mars three hundred and forty years (their years being just a little longer than our days.) Their progress of science was exhausted. I encountered many complex mechanisms, among which was a radio-optiscope. This instrument, (as the name implies) made it possible for one to connect up with a friend on a other planet by knowing his address, and follow him through his daily walks. Among the many things I was interested in was the whereabouts of my old classmates.

The first place I connected up with, naturally, was the town of my Alma Mater. Not being able to find Batchelor at home, I wandered around the town until I located him at the Presbyterian Church. Being pastor of that church, I found him performing a marriage ceremony. He was saying to Boland, who was then Chief of Police, "Do you take this woman to be your awful wife?" Joe Mason, who had taken the fatal step before and was now managing Mr. Copeland's farm, was peacefully seated in a pew, with a look of horror enshrouding the remains of his athletic body. Seated on the opposite side, and boisterously sleeping, was George O'Daniel who had been recently elected Coroner of the town.

Being somewhat discouraged with such a pathetic scene, I switched to Winter Gardens, New York, and there was my friend Boozer, defending his title as Middle-weight champion prize-fighter of the world.

Later I dropped in on Ricker, who was living in Charleston, and who was controlling the fish market there. I just arrived in time to see him throw a book agent out of the front door, my old friend Plexico.

Feeling somewhat sad with the last results, I wandered back to the inland, and connected up with Winnsboro. There was my old classmate, Mayes, "declaring the glory of God" to his congregation. Shorty Pearce, who had become Mayor of the town, and deacon in the church, was one of his still listeners.

My next stop was Rock Hill, and there to my great surprise I found Cherry, now President of Winthrop College, presiding at the commencement exercises while the able State Senator Norton was delivering the commencement address.

On my way to Chester I ran across one of my fellow sufferers, Tom Wallace, seated under a spreading magnolia tree, by his country store. He was engaged in a heated argument with my old friend Grice Hunt, who was controlling the cotton market, and was trying to buy his cotton below par.

Having arrived at Chester, I met up with Hindman, who had become one of the leading lawyers of the town. He was pleading for the defendant, Jack Wilson, who had become a professional bootlegger, as a sideline to the managing of his numerous hotels.

I had seen enough of home for the time being, so I connected up with Cairo, in Africa. There I found a skillful surgeon, Jeff Chapman, ministering to the sick, while Matthew Lynn was ministering to the lost.

According to my list of names, none of my other classmates had crossed the ocean, so I turned into San Francisco. There, at the University, I found Miller, chief surgeon of the medical department. M. B. Nickles was serving as his first assistant, and also as a hen-pecked husband.

Crossing the continent I connected up with Decatur, Georgia. There I found Sydenstricker, Professor of French at Agnes Scott. E. B. Warren had become a great evangelist, and was holding a series of meetings in that city.

I turned into Syracuse, New York, and to my amazement, I found Frank LaMotte busy. He was president of LaMotte & Co., architects.

I connected up with Greenville, and by chance I found Neely in a big department store, just closing a deal for a hundred gross of clothes pins. My main purpose in Greenville was to locate McMahan, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. I found him in his bath, trying out different brands of hair tonic.

I had great difficulty in locating Captain Buckner, but when I found him he was peacefully sleeping in a hammock at Camp McClellan, while his lieutenant drilled the P. C. recruits.

Of the class of '24, this leaves but one man to tell about, and that is my old friend, P. P. Henderson. He became the great scientist who invented the helicopter that made possible my trip to Mars.

The many scenes that I had just experienced became, as it were, vague outlines before my eyes. Further efforts to make connections were in vain, and at last, to my dismay, I realized that I had just passed through a horrible dream, only to wake up and find that after all, my trip was only visionary; so dressing myself quickly, I reached the yard just in time to join my chum with the water wagon.

--THE PROPHET, '21.

Senior Class History

It has been said that history, in the broadest sense of the word, is all that we know about everything that man has ever done, or thought, or hoped, or felt. To tell all about everything that the Class of '24 has ever done, or thought, or hoped, or felt, would take many volumes. It is impossible therefore in the space allotted to this article to undertake anything like an enumeration of the achievements of this loyal, energetic, untiring, band of young men. We can take but a cursory glance at the record of the four years these men have spent together and see if anything has been accomplished that might make a thoughtful reader know that there is something of worth wrapped up in the lives of the men who go out from P. C. under the caption of the Class of '24.

Turning back the clock of fancy to the fall of 1920, one begins to believe that this noted class started right then to making history. They really didn't "do" much, but they "felt" aplenty about home, friends, and the soph's "weapon"; they "thought" much about how to avoid the demonstrations of the wrathful sophs; and they "hoped" that some day they would be far enough advanced not to be classed under the category of "rats". That fateful year gradually drew to a close and then it was that they added more to "history" by their feelings—feelings of unmitigated joy this time. They had passed the period that is the terror of every aspiring high school graduate and the fond recollection of every collegiate senior. They were formally "graduated" freshmen, better known as "sophs."

With the newness and the greenness partially worn off, these lads returned with gay spirits the next year. They were not afraid to move about freely, in fact, all their "unsophisticatedness" had vanished, and they "felt" a pride in being called SOPHOMORES! They perhaps did not live up to the traditions of the school in their new capacity—"rat" caps were vanished, all roads were opened to freshmen, and perhaps the "paddle" was not wielded with quite as much vim as formerly. They nevertheless were there with the "dignity" of sophs, and they did their "bit". This year, as in other years, some of the number represented the college in intercollegiate debates, and certainly in class-room work, literary societies, and athletics, this body lent valuable aid.

By the beginning of the other half of the journey the ranks had depleted somewhat, but they were making history even faster. They were "feeling" that half the task was done, were "thinking" and "hoping" that perhaps they might survive and one day hold that "skin you love to touch," but above all they were still "doing" for themselves, their fellow students, and their Alma Mater. On the football field this class had men, on the tennis court, along the cinder path, among the cage lads, and upon the diamond, and they were not going unnoticed, either!

Then came that coveted period in the life of every college man—the Senior Year! 'Tis true that the class numbered but twenty-seven men who now "hoped" to graduate, but with that number these men could boast of the largest senior class in the history of P. C. They began the last lap of the race with great zeal.

They bravely accepted the responsibilities of the publications, of student government, athletic council, and the many other things that devolve upon the senior. As for their athletic record, the Athletic Association gave gold footballs to seven Varsity seniors and letters to these men and to several others in basketball, baseball, and track. Another outstanding feature in amateur sports of this period was the winning of the class football championship.

Dear reader, if you have followed the account thus far, may you not have gained the impression that these sturdy men of the Class of '24 are boasting of anything they may have accomplished. What these men would rather have you know is that what little they have been able to do during their four years at P. C. is just an earnest of what they want to "do, and think, and hope, and feel" in the days which lie beyond Commencement 1924.

Where Our Dreams Come True

*Far over some mist-hidden river,
 And under a wonderful sky,
 Where the rain never blots out the sunshine,
 And our lives never weary or die;
 Where the flowers never fade, but in clinging
 Their magical sweetness renew,
 Lies a beautiful realm of enchantment—
 'Tis P. C.—Where our dreams come true.*

*By mystical symbols and tokens
 We learned of this beautiful land;
 But, alas! on the threshold of college
 Twenty-four's paddles met our hand (?)
 And the wide river wandered betwixt us,
 Friendships new were hidden from view,
 And only in sleep we'd remember
 The P. C.—Where our dreams come true.*

*As Sophs. we found the pleasures we sought for,
 In wielding our paddles so thin,
 We passed on to others, our greetings
 And deemed it never a sin,
 And oft when the sunset was fairest
 We'd catch, through a rift in the blue,
 A far away glimpse of the glories
 Of P. C.—Where our dreams come true.*

*Here are garnered the spirits of Alumni,
 And the old college songs that they sung;
 Here they move in our midst with best wishes,
 And their faces immortally young;
 And out of the past of our college
 Their hands shall reach us the clue
 That leads through the valley of study
 To P. C.—Where our dreams come true.*

*So, working we strive for our ideals,
 And bury our griefs out of sight,
 And we know in our hearts we shall conquer
 By and by, in this Mansion of Light;
 And the salt tears that fell in our rat-year
 Shall blossom in pansy and rue,
 And there shall be lives immortal,
 For P. C.—Where our dreams come true.*

Junior Class History

The Race

THE RACE—Lap 1.

Certainly, this was a hard course, but then we had more reason to run on the first time around: because, in addition to the goal before us, we were helped (?) along by a little friendly (again?), warm (by no means?) e-er insistence, one might say, from the rear.

But, of course, this only helped us in our race.

Then there were other things of a more creditable (to us) nature that eased the way for us. Now don't think the first help mentioned was not creditable, because that would be rather "low ratin'" ourselves on the next lap; but, surely, we agree that that parenthetical "to us" is well put. We had star debaters, star orators, star "dinglers", star athletes. Not only were '25's on the varsity teams, but our team won the class football championship. (That's ONE time we beat the Sophomores.)

Naturally, digressions in search of knowledge somewhat interrupted our race; but such treading in prohibited paths was not of long duration. So we went around the first time in fine style.

THE RACE—Lap 2.

Again we had two objects in the running. While one, old A. B. (NOT Henderson, Sheepskin), remained unchanged, relations had shifted somewhat in the other. In short, we were the pursurers and not the pursued. And still the race went on.

By this time we had our "second wind": and—mixing metaphors—our stars continued to gleam undimmed, brighter, in fact, than ever. We held of own in athletic circles, we rose in forensic activities, and we continued (?) to shine in the classroom. And another lap lay behind us.

THE RACE—Lap 3.

Again we are on our way. We are showing our usual form, but our speed gives evidence of constant improvement. Sometimes we are diverted from the straight race by the golden apples of entertainment in a form peculiar to Sophomores; but such frivolity is beneath us, and in the main we hold to our course. Some inconsiderate professors will persist in insisting that we study, but apparently that has no effect on us.

And our individual stars rise higher and higher, side by side with our collective star. Why shouldn't we run a good race with team-mates like the Class of '25?

SOPHOMORE CLASS POEM

The Second Mile Stone

*We gathered from the mountains,
From Charleston's sunny shore,
From other states and climates,
To P. C.'s open door.
We gathered for the battle,
The noise of friendly strife
Called us to preparation
For a nobler, better life.*

*We struggled through our "Kat" year
As other freshmen do
To the tune of many fiddles
Played in a discord tune.
We gathered many beatings
From classes gone before
Who said 'twould make the freshman
A better sophomore.*

*Vacation days are over,
We gather here for work
Resolved to do our duties
And ne'er a hard task shirk;
We strive upon the drill ground
As upper classmen should
And then we meet our classes
Determined to make good.*

*We have our many pleasures,
We have our troubles too,
We love our Alma Mater
And ever will be true;
And on life's field of battle,
When far from college doors,
The year will live in memory
When we were Sophomores.*

Sophomore Class History

Yesterday

SEPTEMBER 5, 1922 dawned bright and fair and brought with it eighty-nine fun-loving, knowledge-seeking Freshmen to enroll for the first time in "Big Dick's Christian College". We were shown to the famous halls of P. C. and were given the "dignified" title of Rat.

We progressed rapidly under the tutorage of the faculty and the Sophomores. The most of us withstood successfully the onslaught of Freshman Math and the Sophomore paddle. Well do we remember black-up night and the Rat trial. We immediately began looking forward to the time in '23 when we would be the victor and not the victim. We were also given a chance to show our theatrical ability by giving the annual Freshman minstrel. It was fresh, even to us, as we had only one rehearsal. The year passed very quickly and before we hardly realized it we were given the degree that entitled us to the worthy name of Sophomore.

Our class was the first Freshman class to have a football team. Under the direction of Coach McMillan we put out a team that won honor for itself and for P. C. Carolina was the only team that could claim the honor of defeating us. A number of men showed up exceptionally well, assuring plenty of material for Coach Johnson's varsity team. Howard Clinton was chosen on the All-State Freshman eleven. Captain Robinson, Brown and Copeland played stellar ball all during the season. We were also active along literary lines. Several inter-collegiate debates were held during the year, and we had our share of men on them.

Today

We returned to our studies on September 1, 1923 as Sophomores, ready to exert our authority in training up the Rats in the way they should go. We hope by the end of the year to turn out a real finished product.

Quite a few of our class decided that they had gained enough knowledge in one year so they did not come back with us. But still we have the largest Sophomore class in the history of the institution. Our hearts were saddened by the untimely death of our President, Carey Clyde Brown, who valiantly gave up his life fighting on the gridiron for the school he loved so well. He was admired and respected by everyone and his death was indeed a great blow to us.

Several of our class made excellent records in football, of which we are very proud. Campbell, Clinton, Hunter and Robinson made their letters and show signs of a brilliant future on the gridiron. We are also well represented in the literary activities of the College as we have several men on the staffs of the various publications. One of our members has been chosen to represent the College at the Student Volunteer Convention in Indianapolis.

An entire volume might be written on our history but space does not permit. It is enough to say that we, like the classes before us, have the "ole" P. C. Spirit and are striving to uphold the honor and traditions that this beloved institution enjoys.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Freshman Class History

WHEN the September skies began to brighten, and men turned their thoughts toward a fuller understanding of the secret of the world, about eighty young men of ambition and hope, recently graduated from high school assembled in the educational halls of the Presbyterian College to begin their college course.

There were many things that we, as freshmen, had to find out. One was that we were given a month by the professors to show whether we had received sufficient preparation. Another was that men are not rated by their respective classes, but as "rats" and "upper classmen," and what the word "upper" meant was soon taught us.

The events of that first week are such that we will bear its memory for a lifetime. On "Black-Up Night" we were formally introduced to the wide-awake town of Clinton, and were given royal receptions in several business houses. The following night the Sophomore trial took precedence, and woe unto the rat that betrayed any emotion akin to mirth! On Friday night we met the fair maidens of the city, and were especially charmed by the beauty and grace of the youthful princesses.

After that first week we settled down to a hard term's work. All eyes turned to the freshman field where Lonnie McMillan was moulding an eleven that was destined to wonderful success. Like the other P. C. teams our class eleven fought in every game with the never-say-die spirit that has always characterized a Clinton team. Losing to Davidson and Citadel, we turned and crushed Clemson and downed Newberry in a thrilling contest on our own field. A forward pass in the last second of play at Charleston robbed our eleven of the state championship.

Besides our success on the gridiron we have splendid material for basketball, baseball, and track. Our net team won the inter-class competition, and a big schedule has been closed with other teams in the state.

These are not our only triumphs. On scholarship several of our men were rated among the best. Our men have taken part in all phases of college activities, and with spring yet before us we hope for a bigger term to come.

With the close of college before us we cannot without regret leave this College, but we look forward to a happy reunion in the fall, more educated, at the right end of the paddle, and confident of playing our part in the bringing of glory to "Big Dick's Christian College."

EUKOSMIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

A new practice was started in the society this year. The old custom of compulsory membership was supplanted by an elective system of membership and a complete reorganization of the society was made upon that basis. While not every man in the student body joined one of the societies, yet only a few men did not. The Eukosmian society did not receive quite as many of this year's freshman as the Philomathean, but it has more old men and thus its membership is somewhat larger than the Philomathean. The "Enks" claim the distinction of winning the declaimer's contest last year at Commencement. Mr. Louie L. Perry, speaking on the subject, "The Destiny of Nations", won first place in this contest. Also this society had its share of the inter-collegiate debaters of the past year. As a matter of fact, the work in the two societies seem to run practically parallel.

PHILOMATHEAN LITERARY SOCIETY

Under the new ruling of the faculty which made society membership elective instead of compulsory the Philomathean society effected a complete reorganization at the beginning of this year. The membership is now about seventy-five, or just a little smaller number of members than the Eukosmian society has. The Philomathean society did however receive a few more members from the freshman class this year than did the Eukosmian. Last year Mr. Frank Clarke won a great honor for the Philomathean society and for the Presbyterian College by winning first place at the South Carolina State Oratorical contest at Greenwood. A member of the Philomathean society, Mr. H. E. Montgomery, won first place in the annual inter-society oratorical contest at Commencement last spring. The intercollegiate debaters both freshman and varsity, for 1922-'23 came about equally from the two societies.

Triangular Debate

Erskine-Elon-P. C.

With one man on each team who has previously represented P. C. in intercollegiate debates and one on each team who has displayed great spirit in forensic activities in the societies, we feel that there is naught to fear when these men go to face Erskine and Elon in April.

The debaters won their places on the team for this annual event by a spirited struggle. Each man on the team has previously represented P. C. in one or more intercollegiate debates. FRANK KENNEDY CLARKE

WINNER S. C. STATE ORATORICAL CONTEST

1923

P. C. feels great pride in her representative to the South Carolina Intercollegiate State Oratorical Contest held at Greenwood last year. Mr. Frank Clarke won first place in the contest. His subject was "The Undying Challenge" and his speech related to the educational facilities of South Carolina and to the great possibilities for service to the State by improving them.

Mr. Clarke was in the Sophomore Class at the time of his participation in the contest, a fact which lends all the more proof of his worth and ability. Besides being one of the Commencement Declaimers his freshman year, he has represented P. C. in an intercollegiate debate each year that he has been a student here and has taken an active part in all other forms of collegiate activities.

Belles of the Southland

*More precious in our eyes than rubies fine,
Or jewelled diadems, are the beauties of our land;
And rarer than the sparkle of fresh-beaded wine,
And softer than a flute played by a fairy's hand,
Touched by the rays that warm, but never burn,
Kissed by the breezes o'er earth's garden blown,
Blossomed these flowers whose loveliness doth turn
Our garlanded Southland into Paradise, no fairer known.*

*Truer than life itself have been our Southern belles,
Once smiled they on a patriot clad in gray:
Wept they upon our heroes' graves, they rang the knells
That told of death, and tear-dimmed sorrow in that early day,
Belles of the Southland, schooled in charms and gracious ways,
Sweet flowers in the spot that gave them birth:
As did the South's true sons of old, we still must praise
Their unmatched beauty wedded to their soul's rich worth.*

JOSEPH GRAHAM MILLER, Captain Center

ON THE second play of the first game Miller suffered an injury to his knee, a handicap under which he was forced to play the entire season. But in spite of this handicap, he proved himself to be the best pivot man in the State and won for himself a position on the coveted "All-State" eleven. Going into the Carolina game against the doctor's wishes his indomitable courage and inspiring leadership led his team into the "Big Three". There have been few players in South Carolina football who fought with the same earnest determination and do-or-die spirit that characterized Miller. He has played his last game for his Alma Mater and will be greatly missed when the roll is called next Fall.

FRANCIS BOREL MAYES Manager

"WHEN do we eat rings out like a battle-cry and then to Manager Mayes we fly". Judging from the many boys he feeds and the many entreating cries that go up to him, you would think he was manager of the Armenian Relief. But really he was a skillful manipulator of the "Kale" and it is due mostly to his ability to feed us on "Fifty Cents" and then check up clear even to a coupon that we owe the financial success of our past season. He worked hard on our gridiron and kept it plenty hard for us. And that dirty muddy water that he so lavishly furnished when needed tasted like dew-drops from heaven to us. If the football team had been as successful in their work as our Manager was in his, then our record would have been high perfect.

PORTER HALBERT BOMAR, Captain-Elect Left Tackle

THIS young fellow at one time punched cows in the great and golden West ere he crossed the expanse of territory that divided Wilderness and civilization. Walter Johnson taught this lad how to use his cowpunching methods on the cross-barred field and so well has he succeeded that today Bomar stands out as one of the best tackles in South Carolina. His teammates have recognized that ability by unanimously electing him Captain of the 1924 eleven. It was Bomar who scooped up a fumble and ran 55 yards for the only touchdown of the Carolina game, thereby giving P. C. the right to a place in the "Big Three" of South Carolina Football. Captain Bomar, we know you can do it and we are looking to you to pin that Garnet and Blue Flag so high that the entire State will see and admire it.

JOE FINNEY MASON Left End

FOR three years, Mason has been a mainstay in our line. He was a trusted cog in Johnson's attack, pulling down passes in every game that would always carry the pig-skin for substantial yardage, for he was especially adept in the aerial game, Johnson's delight. Joe's delight is in off-tackle plays, however, and there never was a tackle so big that Joe couldn't move him or else smother him under. On defense he is as much protection to our goal as the American army was to our country. After one of Joe's "shoe-string" tackles, the left side of our line has generally been abandoned. (See Newberry for further particulars in regards to this matter). He had the eye and strength of an eagle on offense and the grasp of an Octopus on defense. To fill his place is the real problem of next season.

HEYWARD JOSEPH HINDMAN Quarterback

HINDMAN'S generalship and ability to advance the ball was unrivalled in the Palmetto State. He always seemed to know just what play would take the opposing team by surprise, and by this uncanny knowledge, he kept the team on the offensive, where other quarterbacks would have resorted to a defensive game. In Hindman the College possessed a triple-threat man that claimed state-wide mention for the past two seasons. In the Davidson game he kicked his team out of danger many times. In the historic game with the Gamecocks, he dashed 35 yards thru the Carolina line on the first play. Three successive passes in the Citadel game advanced the ball from midfield to the three yard mark. But when signals are called next Fall, it won't be Heine's voice, for he graduates this Spring. You meant a lot to us Heine, and we are going to miss you.

LEON NORTON Right Guard

WHEN Norton started with us, his only experience in football consisted in having looked at one. Today, he stands a finished player, with a mighty good record behind him. "Venus" is the biggest man on our squad, tipping the scales at 190. But in spite of his weight, he is fast and comes out of the line to run interference for "Shorty". He uses his weight to advantage and is every inch a man. That impression can be verified by any of the men that have had the misfortune to oppose him or cross the line of scrimmage. Norton is a good student of football, is quick to diagnose the opponents plays and is an unusually hard man to gain ground over. For reference, see the Carolina Football Team. "Venus", we hate to see you go Big Boy, for you leave an aching gap in our line that only a good man can fill.

WILLIAM ROSS RICKER Right Tackle

TALL, rangy, powerful, Ricker had the form for an ideal tackle. And he coupled this gift of nature with his desire and love to play the game and developed into a star of the autumn sport. "Rick" was never given to boasting and his team-mates hardly knew he was on the field save for the massive holes that were rent and torn in the forward line of the rival combatants. Tho this is his first year on the varsity, he never failed to teach the best of them a few new tricks. He played the game for all there was in it every minute he was in there. He always handled his position in a most commendable manner and seemed to have a habit of getting in the way of opponents' punts and passes. He is a member of the Class of '24 and he leaves a mighty big place to be filled next year.

JAMES "SHORTY" PEARCE Right Half-Back

PEARCE, this lad so extremely short of stature makes up for this lack of yardage by the speed, elusiveness, and natural ability that only a rabbit is allowed to possess (excepting Shorty). This little fellow has stepped around every opposing end that has ever appeared on the field against the Garnet and Blue. He handles a football as tho it were a member of his body; he can throw passes unerringly; he catches them from any angle and he has never been known to fumble. Our happiest moments tho are when Shorty returns a punt, side-stepping as only Shorty can, twisting, turning, reversing his direction, all without slackening his speed, he has caused many a would-be-tackler to taste the dirt. Much to our sorrow, the inimitable, the indomitable, the in--(anything that denotes class), Mr. Pearce has donned the football regalia for the last time. To you, Shorty, we owe a large part of the credit for our success.

ROY BRITTON MOORE Full-Back

BIG MOORE is our human pile-driver. He doesn't seem to care whether there is a hole in the line or not, he goes right on. When a yard or two is needed there's no need to call signals, for everyone knows who is going to carry the ball. But hitting the line is not his only accomplishment. He passes the ball far and accurately, and runs beautiful interference. But his chief value is as a defensive player. He is without a peer when it comes to backing up a line. With opponents' line bucks he plays havoc and on end runs he is "red murder". How a man can tackle as hard as he does and then come up altogether is almost beyond reason. Moore, hit 'em hard next year, give 'em 'ell and stay in there and fight 'em!

RALPH GUNN CAMPBELL Left Guard

"TEXAS" Campbell comes from the Lone-Star State and gives promise to be a guard made out of the stuff that stars are manufactured of. He came up from Lonnie McMillan's freshman team of '22 and immediately took his place in the Varsity line. He played in every game this year and toward the end of the season developed into a most dependable man. In the Citadel game he played a jam up defensive game and many times during that afternoon jarred the earth with a Citadel man. He was always a hard fighter and a consistent player.

Campbell is the youngest member of the squad, having only shortly rounded the seventeenth milestone on life's highway. With two years of experience in the mole-skin world he should be a tower of strength and one of the mainstays in Coach Walter's Machine.

HARRY BANKS WARNER Left Half-Back

WARNER, the "find" of the '23 season, is another of our triple-threat men. He carries the ball well, either through the line or around end. His passing improved rapidly during the season and with a little more training will be as good as there is to be found anywhere. However, he is our biggest asset as a kicker. Warner's toe accounted for much of P. C.'s success on the 1923 gridiron. The Wofford game was clearly Warner's day. Two touchdowns, two resulting goals for point and his two field goals, scored 20 of the 26 points that P. C. accumulated during the afternoon. This year was Warner's first season as a Blue Stocking regular. With next fall looming up before us, we hope for the best things from this kicking star, whom we hope to call upon with confidence to defend the Presbyterian goal line.

THOMAS MARSHAL ROBINSON Right End

ALTHOUGH "Robby" played in the backfield on last year's freshman team, the sudden loss of Carey Brown made Coach Johnson shift him to end. At Carolina he played a star game, and from thence on, no one questioned his permanent claim to the end position. He runs fast, stops the plays against his end of the line, and can grab a pass in almost any position. When Wofford invaded Clinton last November with an eye on the state title, their hopes were dashed to the ground when Robby snagged a pass with a half-dozen Terriers yapping at his heels, side-stepping, and with almost incredible speed, planted it in a position from which a touchdown was scored a few seconds later. Robinson is only a sophomore. We are expecting him to star for the Garnet and Blue in the next two years.

HENRY JAMES McLAURIN Center

RED always showed the world that he was tough and ready to participate in the fray. This year he was used as a center and guard. He played in nearly every game and was always aggressive, showing that he had the fighting spirit that it takes to win. His work in the Furman and Clemson games was particularly good and of a high order. Coach never had any fears in taking a varsity linesman out of the game as long as he had Red there to take his place. Next year, with both guard and center position left vacant by graduation, he should easily fill one of them. We expect to see a linesman of the first magnitude in you next season, Red, and we're pulling for you.

HOWARD FOLSOM CLINTON Half Back

C“LINT”, the speed demon of South Carolina turned despair into victory when he eluded a half-dozen would-be tacklers and spanned sixty-five yards to beat Newberry. This was an especially praise-worthy feat in view of the soggy, slippery condition of the Thanksgiving gridiron. In the Erskine battle, when a backfield man fumbled on an attempted place-kick, Clinton snatched the ball from the ground and dodged eleven seeders to cross the line without a hand to be laid upon him. He played a stellar game for thirty minutes in the great fight against the Cadets from Charleston. A year ago, he was given a half-back position on the state's mythical Freshman eleven. With the seasoning of last fall, and two good years under the tutelage of the three wonder coaches, Clinton should be able to claim a position on South Carolina's honor team next year.

NICK HUNTER Quarterback

NICK'S first appearance in a varsity engagement was in the game against Carolina. When Hindman was injured, Nick went in, took his place and showed rare ability in running the team. He played the entire Erskine game and was going great when misfortune befell him and he had to drop out because of an injury to his neck. He remained out a while and then courageously came back. He received the same injury over and this time it was for keeps. He didn't stay out because his neck was hurt or the injury serious, but because the doctors made him. But by next year, with his injury healed, with more experience and with that left handed forward pass perfected, we have little to worry as regards a field general. Go to it Nick, a little better luck next year, and we know you will deliver the goods.

Review of College Athletics 1915-24

FLIPPING the pages of the P. C. year books that date back to 1915 one can hardly be other than impressed with the remarkable strides that the department of athletics has made. Very little has ever been said in the past of the sports prior to 1921, but although football was instituted here in the fall of 1913, baseball dates back into the nineties. So far as can be ascertained, the baseball teams were those that always held their place in the championship runnings in the state.

The earliest date that can be authenticated as to the baseball teams of the Presbyterian College is 1895. At that time there was no association that regulated the eligibility of players and all the college teams hired men to participate in the intercollegiate games. The batteries as a rule always received cash remuneration for their services. Very often the professors played on the college team. Professor D. M. Frierson, who was then connected with the college in the capacity of a teacher, was one of the Blue Stocking mound-men in the days of almost pre-historic Palmetto athletics. Again in '97, Professor A. V. Martin, who still is affiliated with the college as Professor of Mathematics, played third base for the Garnet and Blue Diamondneers. However in 1900, the S. C. I. A. A. was organized and athletics in the old south state were given a severe scrubbing and cleaning, so from that time dates the in-eligibility of paid college athletes and rules also barring the participation of any member of the college faculty.

Back in those days, P. C. had no paid full time coach. The directors were usually secured for the duration of the baseball season only and were often men who had been secured from some of the major league outfits.

Football was started in 1913. Everitt Booe of Davidson was the first Presbyterian College Mentor but his regime lasted only one year. A. H. Miller, who is now a missionary in Africa, captained the first Blue Stocking eleven. All record of the first gridiron performers is lost. The following year, C. E. Theller, of Oberlin, coached the football team. The student body of P. C. numbered less than 100, a large part of which were co-eds. All records of the teams of '14 have been misplaced, but impressions have been that the teams were good.

Basketball was instituted along about the same time that Football made its advent into the Palmetto Hills and settled at P. C.

In 1915, there came a man unto the college over which the Garnet and Blue floats that has done more for the advancement of the Presbyterian College teams, on the gridiron, on the court, and on the diamond alike, than any other man could have possibly done. Walter A. Johnson left the town that Budweiser made famous to come south in order to win fame and fortune. He has done everything that a man can do except get married.

Taking a handful of men that he was perforce to call his first football squad, he scrimmaged one side of the line against the other and whipped his first football team into shape for the first game of the season and incidentally the first of the engagements that was to mark him as one of the wonder coaches of the Palmetto state. His first game was with Wofford. P. C. won 16 to 6. That year the Blue Stocking Gridironers won four and lost two. One of the games that year was with the Clemson Fresh. However, P. C. Varsity and Clemson Fresh never met again for it was always the Clemson first stringers thereafter. In Basketball Johnson won 8 and lost 3. Baseball found nine in the won column, two in the lost, and one tied. So P. C. brought to a close its first banner year in the history of her athletics.

In 1916, the Blue Stockings won three and lost three on the gridiron. The same year, the Johnsonites won nine and lost two cage games and the boys of the diamond won nine, lost two, and tied one of their games.

The next year, 1917, the moleskin lads came through with eight won and one lost. This year the University of South Carolina was defeated 20 to 11. The baseball team did its duty with six victories and four defeats. There was no basketball team this year due to the S. A. E. C.

Football was suspended during the fall of 1918, but athletic activities were resumed with the basketball season of the session '18-'19. This season the cage artists captured six of their contests while they dropped four. There was no regular baseball schedule this year. Coach Johnson enlisted in the army and was away for about a year serving with the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

With the opening of the '19-'20 session the Blue Stockings celebrated the return of their Coach by defeating the University of South Carolina. This year they won four, lost four and tied Newberry and Davidson. The Cym Cagers took seven and lost five, while the Baseball season resulted in four wins, seven losses, and one tie.

1919 revealed one of the most successful seasons on the football field, basketball court and baseball diamond that the Presbyterian college had enjoyed up until that time. The pigskin toters won seven and lost two. The basketball five broke even with eight wins and the same number of losses. The baseball team did a little better with nine good ones and eight to the credit of their opponents.

The following year the Johnson pig-skin warriors garnered six wins, tied Clemson and lost a heart rending affair to Carolina. Both the Basketball and Baseball teams played better than 500, and an altogether remarkable year came to a close, establishing P. C. as a threat to the best in the Two Carolinas.

In '21, the football team had the worst season since the establishment of the autumn sport. Only one game was won out of eight played. The basketball team won five out of thirteen and the baseball nine won eight out of sixteen attempts.

The seasons of '22 and '23 have probably been the most successful ever enjoyed by the Blue Stocking Pigskinners. The final record stood six in favor of the Garret and Blue and two for their adversaries in '22. One of the games resulted in a tie. The season just closed Johnson's men again bested the University of South Carolina and had it not been for unfortunate circumstances a better game would have been played against the Hornets of Furman. The records now show the last effort on the football field to be four victories, three losses and one tie.

The basketball season just closed was extraordinary. The season ended with Captain Miller's basket-artists playing 603. This figure undoubtedly makes the season the best that Johnson has enjoyed in five years.

Since 1915 Johnson has thirty-six victories in football, lost twenty-three, and tied five, for a grand total of 978 points in the Blue Stockings favor and 596 against them. In baseball the boys of the diamond have chalked up thirty-eight victories and have lost thirty-one and tied two. In basketball the various quints have won thirty-seven and lost twenty-two. The grand total of points scored by the basketball teams has reached the fifteen hundred mark while their opponents have scored around fourteen hundred.

Flashing among the brilliant constellations of Presbyterian College Athletic Stars, the astronomical sport writers find many of the all-state variety since 1915. Ten men have been contributed to the mythical football teams, while four have found a place on the all-state teams.

Few colleges, if any, can boast of a more auspicious record than that. And the progress has not stopped. For a long time one of the dire needs of the College was a more up-to-date gymnasium. The athletic field has been completed and it is the only sports acre in the state that has a cinder track of the latest type.

Coach Walter A. Johnson has been signed as the Physical Director for the next five years and he is to have two assistants in all branches of athletics. L. S. McMillan, one of the foremost young coaches of the south will in all probability direct the destinies of the Freshman teams. He has been the Rat coach for the past two years and has enjoyed great success acting in this capacity.

When the next review is written, only the fates know what the result will be. In the course of nine years, P. C. has risen from the realms of the underdogs until now she commands the respect of the entire sport participating element of South Carolina. She is destined to be great, and will succeed!

Freshman Resume

WO years ago South Carolina put her first freshman football teams on the field. Under the tutelage of Lonnie McMillan, football, basketball, track and baseball expert under Walter Johnson for a four year period, the first "rat" team initiated the first freshman schedule into P. C. by defeating Davidson Fresh in Rock Hill. McMillan's Socks smacked of five victories and one defeat in the seventh year of Coach Johnson and in the first year of the freshman rule.

The foregoing introduction referring to the laurels of the Rat Team of '26 merely presages the wreathes of glory that success has given to every member of the team of '27. Under the revised version of the S. I. A. A. Rules a freshman team can only schedule four games. The dictators of the Calvinistic Athletic policy consulted a directory of freshman elevens and selected Davidson, Citadel, Clemson, and Newberry as contestants for Coach Mac's little Sox.

Davidson trimmed the P. C. Fresh at Rock Hill 13 to 0. Completely outplaying the Tar Heelers the first half and battling on even terms the last, P. C. had to be contented with the small end of the score, even though actual playing ability showed a 0-0 tally to be the correct measuring stick of the game.

Traversing a wide expanse of territory known as South Carolina, the boys of '27 encamped at the Citadel to engage the Bull Pups of Charleston Bantam Fame. The game was the kind over which novelists rage; for three full quarters the ball see-sawed the length of the field, but Fate never allowed it to cross the last white line. For fourteen minutes and fifty-eight seconds of the last period McMillan's boys defended according to Hoyle and offended with some degrees less—anyway it was the last lone second when Weeks tossed the leather to Johnson who counted the one lone touchdown that gave the lads of the coast something to brag about.

Coming back home Weatherby, Griffith and Company smashed the young Tigers of Clemson for forty-eight ghoulies and allowed no one to dispute their complete superiority. The mighty Cubs returned to their lair with forty-eight teeth missing and Boss Mac's crew had retained every single one of their ivories.

Ending the season in the proverbial blaze of glory, the blue Sox sent McLean's Newberry Paposes back to their squaws minus sixteen scalps. Not to be denied some pleasure the Baby Indians pulled thirteen threads from the Baby Stockings, but not enough for them to claim the best of the bargain.

Weatherby, T. Bailey, and the Kirven Bros. carried the burden in the backfield while Griffith, McCall, C. McLaurin, Montgomery, Smith, Berry and Gregg formed an irresistible force and an immovable object in the form of the forwards. The playing of these men advertises the security of P. C.'s position in the Big Three for several seasons to come.

Coach McMillan for two years has put teams of good repute upon the field. By virtue of losing only one state game he can claim a tie with Carolina for the Championship of Freshman Football in South Carolina.

Review of the Season

WHEN football had become a glorified memory of the past, and the call for basketball was issued, ten young men lined up for practice on the old floor of the Presbyterian College gym. There were three letter men back from the squad of last year, but the bulk of the material was found to be in the Sophomore class. Some of the men had never played basketball before coming to Clinton. Prospects were not bright for a strong team, but talent could not long be hid, and in the first game the squad put up a brilliant fight against Pacific Mills, textile champions of the South, losing by a bare margin of eight points.

A fast team developed and the papers began to comment on the accomplishments of the Presbyterian College cagers. The team that played regularly throughout the season lined up as follows: Hunter and Walker forwards; Ricker, center; Miller and Moore, guards. With the exception of Ricker, none of the men were large, and were consequently handicapped in jumping. Hunter soon became one of the leading forwards of the Palmetto state. He was able to shoot with men hanging on every limb because of his native ability to whirl the ball over his right shoulder with his left hand. His floor work resembled the rush of a whirlwind, and many times during the year he took the ball by himself and flashed through an entire line-up to frame a goal.

Walker, the other forward, became a strong mate for Hunter. In the last home game with Greenville Country Club, he scored goals at the last that gave the Blue Stockings a two-point victory. He scored more than any of his mates in this game, the greatest victory of our season.

Ricker was a great man for the central position. His reach enabled him to tip the ball to his team, and P. C. scored a number of her points on such plays which demanded a favorable jump. He was an exceptionally strong defensive player, but could also display the punch needed to produce points.

In the guard positions, Moore at running, and Captain Miller at standing guard left little to be desired. Miller was effective in breaking up passes and prevented a large number of shots from finding the basket. Moore was able at all times to dash down the floor and ring baskets.

Although the team lost the first four or five games, all of them with non-collegiate quintets, it was not surprising when she turned back the Tigers of Clemson by a big margin. Following this came victories over Citadel and College of Charleston, mingled with defeats at the hands of Newberry, Southern, and Carolina. Southern defeated Presbyterian College in a thriller on the Clinton floor, tying the score a moment before the final whistle and winning in the extra period. The second game with Clemson found P. C. behind as the whistle blew. Hunter shot a goal from the foul line, and the team drew away from the gridiron champions in the extra five minutes of play.

With her state record standing at six games won and three lost, P. C. journeyed to Macon to battle for Southern honors. She drew Louisiana State in the first game, and although the Blue Stockings led the first half by a convincing margin, they fell down at the last and allowed Louisiana State to even the count. Two extra periods were required to overcome the tie, and the lads from the delta were given the decision, 28 to 21, thus eliminating P. C.

P. C. has had a good season, but she has a brighter future than a past to look to. Hunter, Walker, and Moore, three outstanding men on this year's five will be with the team for two more years, as will Martin, who showed up well in several games at center. Roy Moore will make a bid for Miller's guard position, and a couple of men from the Freshman team will give it added strength. We look next year for state and southern honors.

THE BATTALION

One Hundred and Fifty Six

1924

FOR FUN

"A LITTLE NONSENSE NOW AND THEN IS RELISHED BY THE WISEST MEN".

Dedication

There is prevalent to a mild degree on every campus that type of personality whose melancholic temperament is such that it prompts the individual to take offense at the slightest thrust of jocularity, which perchance has hit its mark. It is to this mean and contemptible spirit of mind that we do most formally and unhesitatingly dedicate this section of our annual.

Foreword

With the profoundest apologies to none, with malice to none (except the Absence Committee), and with justice and fairness to all, we present you as you appear to others. If you are pictured here, it is because we love you for your faults, and the devil knows you have many. If you are not mentioned here, it is not because we particularly love you, but because you have not attempted enough worth while things to have faults worthy of notice.

What you think of yourself, we do not care; to us you are merely an ordinary human, more ridiculous than important. But still less do we care what you think of us; we know we are the biggest fish in the pond. We have no fears, are unmarried, possess a Ford, can move and will move. So friend, read on into this sweet-scented manuscript of youth. If you like it, it will probably be because you are not in it. If you don't like it, it will probably be because you are in it. Whether you like this section or not, does not concern us; but whether you smile or not, does---so SMILE, darn you, SMILE!

FOR PRESIDENT

OUR NOMINEE

OUR CHOICE

FEELING that the American people are entitled to the best of the land, we, the Student body of the Presbyterian College of South Carolina, hereby offer as our Democrat Nominee for the Presidency of these United States of America, The Right Honorable Clinton. His wonderful education and unparalleled past experience in public affairs render him in every way capable of filling this office. But let him speak for himself.

I received my early education in the State Training School located at Clinton, S. C., and when but a lad of twenty I entered Chester High from which I was graduated in less than ten years, without honors. The next eight years of my life was spent at the Presbyterian College of South Carolina, where I graduated as a Sophomore; my graduation being requested by the Student Council and urged by the Absence Committee. My auto-biography may be found on file at either Sing Sing or Leavenworth.

My career in the service of the public I will sum up briefly. For a number of years I served as Chief Warden of the Clinton Jail. Later I was elected President of the Asylum Inmate Association. In 1914 I came very near being elected Governor of South Carolina, but my friends persuaded me not to run.

For the benefit of those few who are so unfortunate as not to know it, I will be elected to the Presidency on the following scaffold.

- 1st. Board—I am utterly opposed to tax, especially Carpet tacks.
- 2nd. Board—No foreigners should be allowed to settle in the United States except those from: Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, South America, and Georgia.
- 3rd. Board—The U. S. Military Resources shall be reduced to a Salvation Army.
- 4th. Board—No industry shall be allowed to work children under five years of age over twelve hours per day.
- 5th. Board—No one except married people shall be granted a divorce.
- 6th. Board—(a) More whiskey, better whiskey, bigger bottles, and half price.
(b) The limit shall not exceed one gallon per day per capita for medical purposes.
(c) Clergymen and College Professors shall not be limited.
(d) Moonshiners shall be retired with pension at the age of twenty-nine and one half years.
- 7th. Board—The U. S. should enter the League of Nations to spite the Republican Party.

As future President of the United States, I thank you for your unanimous vote.

Service for yours,

Right Honorable H. F. Clinton, B.V.D., O.K.

Fire and Brimstone

From the "BLUE STOCKING'S" Joke Column.

Dr. Kennedy in Soph History: "Warren, why didn't the Clergy marry?"
Warren: "Must've been cause they couldn't be bothered with more than one Papacy."

— BLUE STOCKING —

Tildy: "Well, it looks like we will have a new Gymnasium soon."
Currie: "Yes, won't that be nice. Glad to have somewhere to strike a match on the way to the athletic field".

— BLUE STOCKING —

*"Sing not to me of falling dew
Upon the Clinton Hills,
For we are worried far too much
By falling due of bills."*

— BLUE STOCKING —

Norton: "Specs, did you hear about that old gentleman that died last month and left all he had to Thornwell Orphanage?"
Specs: "Sho' nuff? How much did he have?"
Norton: "Eleven children".

— BLUE STOCKING —

Susie: "You told me to file these letters, sir?"
Col. Glasgow: "Why yes?"
Susie: "Oh, sir, I was only thinking it might be easier to trim them down with scissors."

— BLUE STOCKING —

*I'm offa' women for life
It's a tale that gives me pain.
I'm offa' women for life—
The reason for which is plain.
The line she flung was far too deep
And the jokes I slung just made her weep.
But the worst she did was to fall asleep.
So I'm offa' women for life.*

— BLUE STOCKING —

*Smile and the world smiles with you;
Snore and you sleep alone.*

Prof. Martin: "What's that noise back there?"
Macfarlan: "I've just dropped a perpendicular".

-- BLUE STOCKING

Lewis: "Perry was nearly drowned last night."
Hay: "Zat so, how did it happen?"
Lewis: "The pillow slipped, the bed spread, and he fell through the mattress into the spring".

- BLUE STOCKING -

Dr. Kennedy: "LaMotte, what is credit?"
LaMotte: "Dr., if I had enough confidence in you to lend you anything, that would be credit."

BLUE STOCKING

*"Could anyone, Love, between us come?"
He asked in accents tender,
"Well", said her brother beneath the lounge,
"He'd have to be awfully slender".*

--BLUE STOCKING--

Freshman (To Perry): "What are you going to do with that package of letters?"
Perry: "Put them in cold storage".
Freshman: "Why, because they are too soft to keep without it"?

--- BLUE STOCKING ---

*They buried her in a bathing suit,
A victim of the sea,
She died from shame,
When a big wave came,
Her epitaph: "R. I. P."*

- BLUE STOCKING - -

Dr. Hoy: "What insect lives on the least food?"
Brilliant freshie: "The moth, sir. It eats holes."

- - BLUE STOCKING

Nobody

(With apologies to -)

*When life seems full of clouds and rain,
And I am full of nothing, but pain,
Who soothes my thumping, bumping brain?*

NOBODY.

*When winter comes with snow and sleet,
And catches me with hunger and
cold feet,
Who says "Here's two-bits -go
'head, get a bite to eat?"*

NOBODY

*When spring comes all cool and clear,
And my friends see me dancing
near,
Who says, "Come in, please have some beer?"*

Huh- NOBODY.

*When P. C. plays far away,
And you look around for a car
all day,
Who says, "Jump in, ride without pay?"*
NOBODY.

*When one feels that he will not pass,
And all think he's a big jack-
ass,
What kind professor says, "You passed?"*

NOT-A-ONE.

*When I was in that railroad
wreck,
And thought I'd cashed in my last check,
Who took the engine off my neck?*

NOT-A-SOUL.

Little Things We Know But Won't Tell

Why Dr. Kennedy does not get married
 When the gym is going to be completed
 Why Cherry bought five PaC-SaCs
 Why Joe Martin has only two teeth
 Why we can't get hot water in Spencer Hall
 Why B. Graham started to correcting his exam papers
 When Coach is going to get married
 Where Dr. Brimm buys his chewing tobacco
 What Sergeant Hippert spent $100.00 for at Christmas
 What caused the track meet
 How much the Seniors made on Caesar's Burlesque
 What Nick's girl was crying about in the post office
 Why Lonnie McMillan goes to North Carolina every other week-end
 Who got drunk on the Citadel basketball trip
 Why Dr. Jones leaves home on Saturday nights
 Why certain seniors say, "It pays to advertise"
 Who wrote this page
 Who is the faculty adviser on proper evening dress
 Why Professor Martin buys new Fords so often
 Why Bland, Walker and Weldom still take Fresh Math

Sweet Rest

(With apologies to "Rudy")

*When Bothwell's last joke has been spoken,
 And the last wheeze on drilling has died;
 When Venus and Duck have departed, and
 Monk and Peck have hied,
 We shall rest, and faith, we shall need it;
 Lie down for an aeon or two
 Till some new original humorist
 Shall put us to laughing anew.*

The Dingle Tree

A sacred thing is the dingle tree,
That on P. C's, fair campus grows,
It blooms, it blossoms, and flourishes
And it's "mighty lak" a rose."

From far and near the students come
To pluck the choicest fruits,
To climb the tree, to rob a limb,
Or even spade its roots

There's Ruckner in the topmost bough
With dingles in his hand;
From the standpoint of a dinger,
He's the greatest in the land.

Old F. K. Clarke sits high in the tree
And proudly shows his prize;
If his limb don't break 'fore he quit-
uates,
His bunch will be twice that size

L. K. Johnston grins his teeth,
As up the tree he climbs,
For swaying in the gentle breeze,
Dingles are sweeter than rhines

There is Harold Fuller, the apprentice,
Who swings a wicked spade;
He cultivates the dingle tree
In order to learn the trade

One poor wretch found a rotten limb,
Even as you and I;
There will be nothing but D's and
E's for him,
Even as you and I

But Francis Mayes rides boldly by
And laughs at you and me,
As, all day long, he sings his song:
"Nero-my-ear to thee."

WE TAKE great pleasure in presenting for your applause and hearty approval this exclusive picture of the office force of Col. Glasgow's cadet corps in action. The PaC-SaC photographer succeeded in making this snapshot after Pathe, Paramount and International News men had failed, owing to the heavy office guard (used to prevent assassination, not escape).

The center figure is Lt. David R. Nimocks, Adjutant, who, by order of Col. Glasgow, wrote the new I. D. R. which governs the drills and maneuvers of the United States armies, also the National Guard. Of course everyone knows that Gen. Pershing is Lt. Nimocks' right-hand man.

The soldiery man, dressed in O. D.'s, and standing at attention is Private Peck, the World War hero. Although he never went over seas, he did his bit by selling Thrift Stamps in Chester and thus financing the Lieutenant's campaign "over there."

In the extreme right of the picture can be seen H. J. Hindman, the stenographer, rushing an order to Washington to knock thirty cents off Monk Bank's pay for deserting at Physical Torture one morning last Tuesday.

Don't look at little Master Norton, as he doesn't belong in the picture. The lad is a constant source of annoyance to the efficient office force and had been booted out of the armory just prior to the making of this picture, but somehow he succeeded in bribing the guards and appeared in the doorway just as the kodak was snapped.

Falling Hair Stopped; New Growth Assured

NEW HAIR AFTER TWO WEEKS' TREATMENT—MARKED DAILY IMPROVEMENT. MONK BANKS, SOLE AGENT, WILL GLADLY CALL UPON YOU UPON REQUEST. SEE HIM IMMEDIATELY AS THIS NEW INVENTION IS SELLING SO FAST HIS COMPANY CAN HARDLY KEEP HIM SUPPLIED.

Some Testimonials We Have Received:

"In trying to keep out of the Skull-cap Division, I've used gallons of oil of all kinds—I've even used salad oil, and I would have added asparagus tips, sliced cucumbers or lettuce and tomatoes, too, if anyone had recommended them. Once I tried kerosene; but my wife said there was nothing in the marriage contract requiring her to cherish a mate who was one-third man and two-thirds lamp. Since then I've used your remedy and now my hair shows wonderful improvement. My hair used to be oily; now it stays nice and fluffy."

Prof. B. G.
Clinton, S. C.

"I thank you for the best remedy I have ever had to avoid losing hair. It has worked wonders for me. My hair is coming in fine. There are little shreds of hair all over my head, and on what was once as bare as the Sahara there is now a thin fuzz trying to push through. I consider Luther Burbank and his growing insignificant as compared with your wonderful accomplishments. You are at liberty to make any use of this testimonial and name that you desire."

W. E. HOY,
Clinton, S. C.

"Your treatment so far is nothing short of being wonderful. Your outfit is wonderful. It is a pleasure to use your remedy. I am so overjoyed with the results I have obtained, that I could not refrain from having a picture made, in company with your wonderful invention. Please accept my hearty thanks for your wonderful invention, and the benefit it has wrought upon mankind. Send me as quickly as you can two (2) large boxes of your hair tonic."

E. D. McMAHAN.

Lack of space prevents further testimony, but we refer you to: Coach W. A. Johnson, E. M. Walker, Prof. H. E. Sturgeon, Messrs. Bynum Poe and H. F. Clinton. See Agent Banks immediately.

I

Columbia Seminary has an honorable past. For nearly a century it has given faithful service to the Presbyterian Church, sending out about twelve hundred ministers to fill its pulpits and to go as missionaries to the utmost parts of the world; many of them taking leading parts in the shaping of the destiny of the Church.

II

Columbia Seminary has a useful present. At no time in all of its history has it been more active. Its Faculty organization is composed of eight men sound in the faith, well trained in their departments, and experienced in the practical work of the Church. Its student body is composed of sixty-three fine young men, coming from various sections of our country. The demand for their services as pastors and supplies is greater than we can fill.

III

Columbia Seminary has a hopeful future. Plans are on foot for a bigger and better Seminary. The people are being aroused as to the necessity of more adequate training of the ministers. The demand for well educated ministers is even greater than it has been in the past.

IV

Columbia Seminary is ideally located as to a comfortable and healthful climate. Columbia is an educational center, and has all the advantages of being the Capital City.

V

Columbia Seminary welcomes students for the ministry, and offers to all worthy of help the usual financial assistance offered by the Seminaries of our Church.

WE HAVE furnished a complete service to the management of "The PaC-SaC" 1924. All extra art work, the engraving printing and binding of this book were done in our plant.

This has been made possible by specializing on this class of work. This year we are doing work on something like 35 Annuals.

We are prepared to furnish a complete line of stock inserts, borders, panels, instruction books and many other necessities to an annual staff. We will have a more complete line of samples also.

We sincerely hope that the management of "The PaC-SaC" is satisfied with the product of our efforts and that the incoming staff will confer with us before committing themselves on next year's contracts. Don't fail to let us know when you can see our representative.
